

The Archbishop Lanfranc School

The Archbishop Lanfranc School is a popular, mixed, non-denominational, 11-16 comprehensive which is over-subscribed, with a roll in excess of 1000. The school performance tables consistently place the school in the top 25 % nationally for contextual value added.

The school has been a specialist in sport and ICT since September 2005 and in May 2006 was described by Ofsted as “a good school which has some outstanding features”. The inspection report also stated that “there is much that is exciting about the work of the school”.

From September 2008, we are seeking to appoint a:

KEY STAGE COORDINATOR IN SCIENCE

The salary will be on the outer London scale and will be supplemented by TLR2c (£5920 in September 2008).

The person appointed will join a very effective and well led department and assume a key stage responsibility.

In return for your commitment we will offer you:

- a friendly and supportive staff
- an outstanding induction programme for new staff
- a proven track record of successful preparation for promotion
- an exciting opportunity to be involved in significant development activities

If you are interested in joining our vibrant and successful team, please send for the information or better still visit us during the working day.
